AAHT Copyright notice

The content on the Arran Arts Heritage Trail (AAHT) website (pertaining to text and images) is the property of the respective owners, who are identified when and where possible.

AAHT is an educational and community resource, and as such is run by a team of volunteers. There is no financial gain (material or otherwise) from the AAHT, and there are no paid members of the organisation. The resource is run and maintained by volunteers. Contact details are below if required.

Text notice:

AAHT have attempted to provide accurate information on this resource, however we take no responsibility for any errors in the text. Information relating to artists details are often based on secondary sources, auction results and from local knowledge on the Isle of Arran and our team of researchers. We will however endeavour to make any corrections when and where possible as these arise.

Image notice:

Credits and image rights are provided when and where possible. Living artist's work are covered on a case by case basis by DACS licensing (www.dacs.org.uk). The majority of content on the AAHT website is represented by artists whose work is out of copyright, however the owners of the artworks are acknowledged when and where possible. We will attempt to update this as we receive new information. Several artists biographies are provided by Wikipedia, and are here used under an attribution share-alike license. Details can be found here: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Wikipedia:Text\_of\_Creative\_Commons\_Attribution-ShareAlike\_3.0\_Unported\_License

Users of the website are not permitted to re-use (or create deviations) of the artworks and text without the explicit permissions of the copyright holders. Users are also expressly forbidden from using any imagery for financial or commercial gain without seeking permission from the image holders.

Queries and complaints:

Queries and complaints can be sent to our contact page. If an artwork has been incorrectly attributed, or if there any issues regarding usage, or if you have any comments or suggestions please get in touch and we will aim to resolve these when possible. The site is an ongoing development, and we will aim to create the best resource available to you. Thank you.
